The Feminist To-Do List
Abortion Access Edition

Your one-stop-shop for supporting abortion access by investing in the well-being of your community.

Each part of the abortion access movement needs support from the community. We all have an individual part to play in the fight for collective abortion access.
An important part of abortion advocacy involves taking individual action to invest in the collective well-being of our communities. This is especially true for marginalized people who face a web of complicated barriers while trying to access abortion and reproductive healthcare. Communities are better equipped to address the most critical needs when individuals commit to work together. From patient support to engaging in dialogue, we all play an individual role in the fight for collective abortion access.

At USOW, we aim to empower folks who are interested in contributing towards community care.
